

Environmental policy

Pon Power strives for improving the environmental performance and for protecting the environment by:

- Being aware of how our business influence the environment and actively follow the development within the area of environment
- Developing new technical solutions to reduce climate emissions
- Advising customers regarding choice of solutions and how to operate - also from an environmental perspective
- Comply with customers' environmental guidelines when working onsite
- Selecting suppliers based on their ability to meet our requirements – also with regard to the environment.
- Commit ourselves to comply with current environmental legislations and regulations, and any other environmental requirements we engage in.
- Having competent and engaged employees - also when it comes to environmental performance

Our Environmental management system ensures that our significant environmental aspects and related risks are defined and actions taken to reduce the environmental impact. So are the operational control and objectives.
